 AYDA International Awards

The AYDA Awards (formerly known as the Asia Young Designer Awards), was first launched in 2008 as part of Nippon Paint's vision to nurture the next generation of design talents. The award serves as a platform to inspire Architectural and Interior Design students to develop their skills through cross-learning opportunities and networking with key industry players and fellow Architectural and Interior Design peers in the region.

Since then, AYDA has grown in reach and stature and has now established itself as one of Asia's premier design awards. It has received more than 50,000 entries from over 1,200 tertiary education institutions to date across 16 geographical locations globally. Over the years, AYDA has impacted thousands of young and talented student designers, presenting them with various opportunities to engage with renowned speakers and key figures in the design industry. In addition, the platform has enabled the participants to gain first-hand industry knowledge, personalised coaching, mentoring and skills-building through various workshops by experienced lecturers and industry professionals. On top of that, this experience allowed participants to learn from their fellow peers from within and across borders.

Every year, AYDA presents yet another opportunity for young design talents to push their design boundaries further beyond the norm. Through the various experiential learnings and once-in-a-lifetime opportunities such as these, AYDA has established a close-knit design community comprising professional architects, interior designers, industry associations, partners, design schools, alumni and design students.

Foreword:

Building Impact in Design Through Purposeful Intervention

WEE SIEW KIM

*Group Chief Executive Officer
NIPSEA Group*

We live in an ever changing and hyper connected world with global-scale events affecting our lives on a daily basis. The connectivity between people through technology and cultural convergence stem beyond just what our eyes can see, and our body can feel. The impact of global issues are felt right in our own backyard. The very same problems our fellow friends face across the ocean could be the very same problems we experience; so, why can't we work together and find scalable solutions for everyone?

Turning 15, AYDA Awards is experiencing growth like never before. We have grown to become way more than just a competition but a holistic growth accelerator for budding designers, an avenue for great minds to collide and nurture talents. Over the years, AYDA has now become a congregation of passionate communities across the globe. None of these ideas and plans could have been possible without the whole hearted support from our mentors, lecturers and judges.

AYDA is still growing and we seek your commitment towards a future where designers of today and tomorrow can shine, for the sake of humanity.

The theme of the year - Converge: Championing Purposeful Designs focuses on a designer's journey in searching for a cause worth fighting for. What we believe and invest in may change over a period of time. However, we encourage you to live in the present and ask yourself

1. What is the core of your design value?
2. What is the one thing you would like to change in this world?
3. What is the one thing you enjoy working on even when the whole world may disagree with you?

Year by year, we worked hand in hand with our Advisory Panel to craft a unique learning experience and design challenge with the goal of pushing boundaries and helping you reach greater heights in design. Over the years, these partners of AYDA have continually refocused the competition to meet the emerging needs of our times. In response, our participating students have stepped up and raised their standards. We are now present across 16 geographical locations globally. I firmly believe that your ideas can help change the world for the better.

With a big heart and great expectations, I wish you the very best.

AYDA Awards Advisory Panel

(2023 - 2024)

ARCHITECTURAL CATEGORY

Tanya Karim

Founder, Tanya Karim N.R. Khan & Associates

- The world has been through a hard time and it's a unique experience. Everyone can easily resonate with these feelings of sorrow and grief cultivating a stronger sense of EMPATHY, which is essential in design.
- With ongoing social challenges and wide-scale migration of the human population, I hope we can focus on promoting DIVERSITY through design.
- Architecture and spatial design is about constantly adjusting the parameters of design and pairing it with technology in order to bring new and innovative solutions to all.

Nina Arce

Principal Architect, Arce-Bailon-Arce Architects

- With the pandemic sweeping across the globe, it has created a strong sense of AMBIGUITY and UNCERTAINTY, we live in a rather messy world now. Let us ask ourselves, how do we design with sufficient RESILIENCE to face the worlds' ongoing problems?
- Everything we design should always put humanity first. It's also important to learn from our legacy, roots and culture because a good design is meant for everyone.
- Prioritising nature and society and focus on the interconnectedness of relationships between us and nature, or what we call "Integral Ecology"

Benjamin Tan

Architectural Director, CPG International

- Living in the age of hyperconnectivity results in the loss of connectivity with people around us and around the world.
- People are lost in a world constantly bombarded with information and noises. How can we help develop spaces and communities that care for each other and learn to disconnect and reconnect?

Suhasini Ayer-Guigan

Principal Architect, Auroville Design Consultants

- What left us awake when the pandemic hits is about building systems and contexts that disregard borders, economic system, culture and ethnicity. There are many global level challenges like climate change that forces us to collaborate beyond the comfort of our own homes.
- To continuously tackle big issues like climate, economic fragility and disparity between rich and poor; we need to channel our energy into designing more holistic spaces for everyone.

Russell Dandeniya
Principal Architect, RD Architects

- Architecture and spatial design is a response to our surroundings. For example, social distancing through the pandemic has dramatically shifted the way we interact with others, commute and work. People may have become more selfish, so how do we encourage people to adopt more genuine interactions and connections?
- Oftentimes, the best design is the simplest design.

INTERIOR DESIGN CATEGORY

Jennifer Murray
Co-founder, Evocateurs

- Everything about technology is about efficiency and highest rate output. These changes lifestyle and society structure in the long run.
- An example is the Singapore Modular Housing which is extremely efficient in providing a roof over the head of many but heavily lacks the sense of flexibility of spaces, leading to deficiency in cultural and lifestyle choices that can be made by the residents.
- How can we marry the idea of efficiency and flexibility to help our users drive better lifestyle options? How do we make these changes within the homes we live in?

Yasemin Arpac
Co-founder, Ofist

- The world is fragmented and disconnected and it is an urgent matter. Spaces we design must be optimised for holistic well-being which covers our physical, mental and emotional health.
- How will our designs create maximum connectivity between people and leave a positive impact on users?

Lai Siew Hong
Co-Founder, Blu Water

- I urge us to relook at design and its purpose, with the world's population and needs booming, our design should address global needs.
- The right design should consist of adaptive and transformative changes paired with holistic elements that improves the quality of life.
- Great design has the power to change the world for the better, with designers also wearing the hats of strategists, innovators and communicators.

Pruisatorn Ou Sakulthai

Partner & Design Director, PIA Interior Company Ltd

- Connection is the key word to what I am looking for. Especially the connection between different age groups and generations.
- How would you use media and technology to design spaces which can encourage the interaction between people of different ages, backgrounds, cultures, and languages?

Santi Alaysius

Co-founder, Domisilium & DMDIO

- Mindfulness might sound complicated but it boils down to simply being human.
- Let's relearn becoming human and ask ourselves important experiences and lessons that make us humans.
- Going back to basics does not mean we are any less creative, it means we have become more aware of our well-being and existence.

CONVERGE: Championing Purposeful Designs

What Does Convergence in Design Mean to Us as People?

Convergence is when a point or line meets and tends to lead to a common result or conclusion. AYDA Awards would like to help shape a future where designers from different backgrounds, cultures and regions can learn from each other and deliver the best possible solution to common and underlying social challenges.

Ever since the Covid-19 pandemic hit us in 2020, life has been different. It has been an exceedingly tenuous time for budding designers to make sense of the future of spatial design due to the lasting effects of the pandemic.

As the world progressively recovers from the Covid-19 pandemic, we now realise we live in a world that is more connected than ever. We have had to learn how to live as one human race and see similarities in each other to adapt, survive and thrive under the circumstances of the new normal.

The world may be huge and have differences in nationality, language, beliefs and culture, but there has always only been one race, the human race. Regardless of colour, ethnicity and culture, designers should learn to collaborate and converge using the universal design language and our expertise to build a future for the next generation.

The role of a designer of tomorrow is reaching new heights. As a result, designers have to consider many factors that will determine the longevity and suitability of their work and how it can help people weather through thick and thin.

By embracing the concept of convergence, you are to be more open-minded and keener to know the latest trends and needs in your community and communicate that to the world. You are ultimately providing a scalable solution for your peers in regions with similar challenges.

Embracing our Similarities

Embrace the concept of one humanity where we learn to see more of our commonalities and similarities with people from across the world despite the differences in cultures, languages, ethnicities, and roots.

Our needs for holistic well-being are universal and a good design can help us achieve that for generations to come.

Leverage on our Connectivity

We may be physically far apart from each other but the technological advancements as a result from the Covid-19 pandemic has brought us closer to each other now more than ever.

The connection we share today should help us connect and understand each other's strength and expertise better. Our solutions for spatial design can then scale from here onwards.

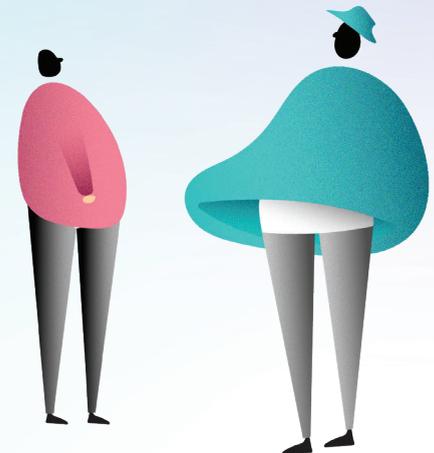

Sharing ideas for maximised Convergence

Working together as one is one of AYDA's ultimate goals where designers from different parts of the world would contribute to each other in solving critical and emerging social issues through the power of good design.

The same problems we face in our backyards are similar to the ones faced by our friends from across the globe, so let's work together. Slowly but surely!

What is Converge according to our panel?

- When two or more elements collide to create a domino effect in multiplying our efforts
- Connecting at one point and spread out like a web across multidisciplinary expertise to help solve complex problems
- Coming together and celebrating our commonalities and differences
- A synthesis of ideas to push a collective agenda forward through holistic design thinking solutions

SUB-THEME OF THE YEAR

Championing a Cause Worth Fighting for Starts from Ground Zero

Good designs are meant to help the world function better. So, while many designs have strong commercial purposes and play key roles in developing our economies, good design is also an essential part of community development and serving the communities who are under-represented.

This year's theme encourages young designers to explore the possibilities of combining your personal design interest with causes worth fighting for. The end goal? To build beacons of hope for communities in need while promoting the development of humanity.

Here are some important points to consider when entering this year's design journey:

Embracing a cause worth fighting for - in our own style.

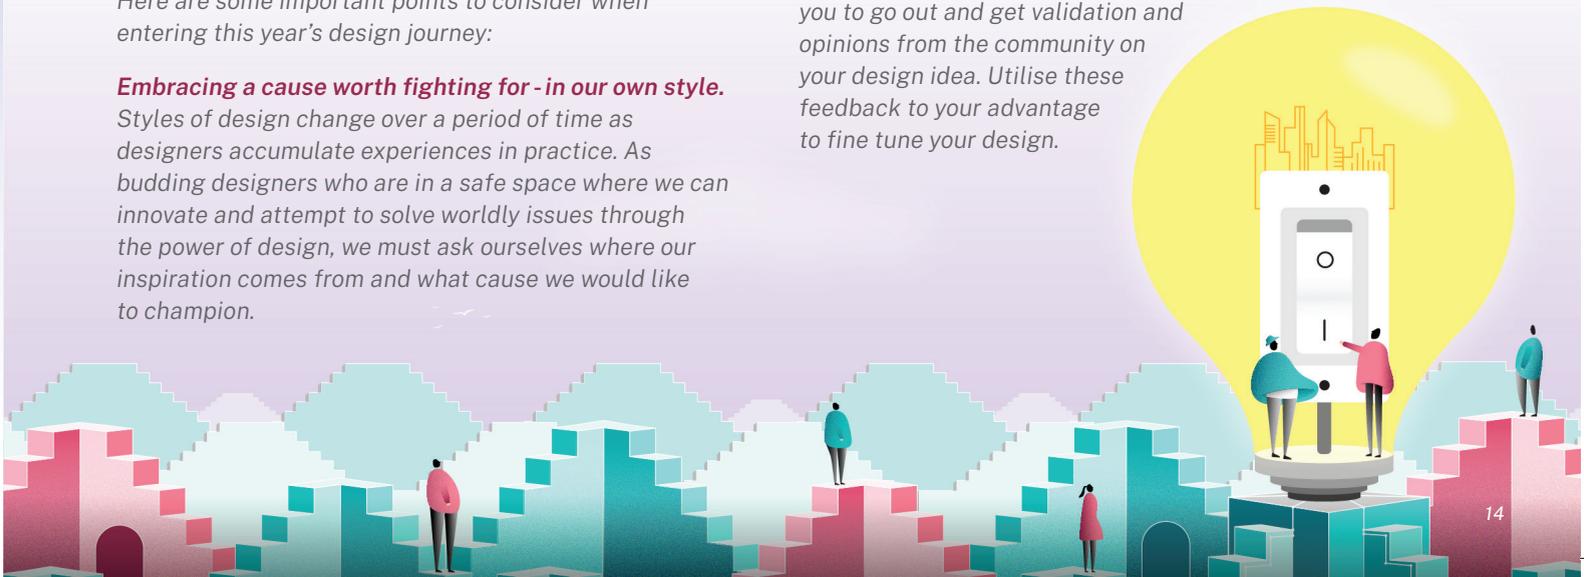

Styles of design change over a period of time as designers accumulate experiences in practice. As budding designers who are in a safe space where we can innovate and attempt to solve worldly issues through the power of design, we must ask ourselves where our inspiration comes from and what cause we would like to champion.

Listening to your inner voice and developing design philosophy

Referring to the work of great designers and leveraging on social media trends can be luring especially for designers just starting out. However, we need to learn to listen to our inner voice and develop our design philosophy through personal experiences, research and data collection and experimentation.

Finding our worth through peer and social validation

Oftentimes, we get cooped up in our own design ideals and have forgotten the true purpose of good design - to serve the needs of the communities. We encourage you to go out and get validation and opinions from the community on your design idea. Utilise these feedback to your advantage to fine tune your design.

Breaking Down the Big Idea for Your Design Brief

Step #1

DEVELOPING YOUR DESIGN VOICE IN A WORLD OF NOISES

- How can we learn to develop our own voice while thriving in social settings where there is a lot of pressure coming from our mentors, social media and peers.
- How can we balance between what we truly invested in versus what others expect us to design.
- How do we see past just aesthetic gratification and learn to invest in long term gain through good design that can help improve the quality of life for communities we care about.

Step #2

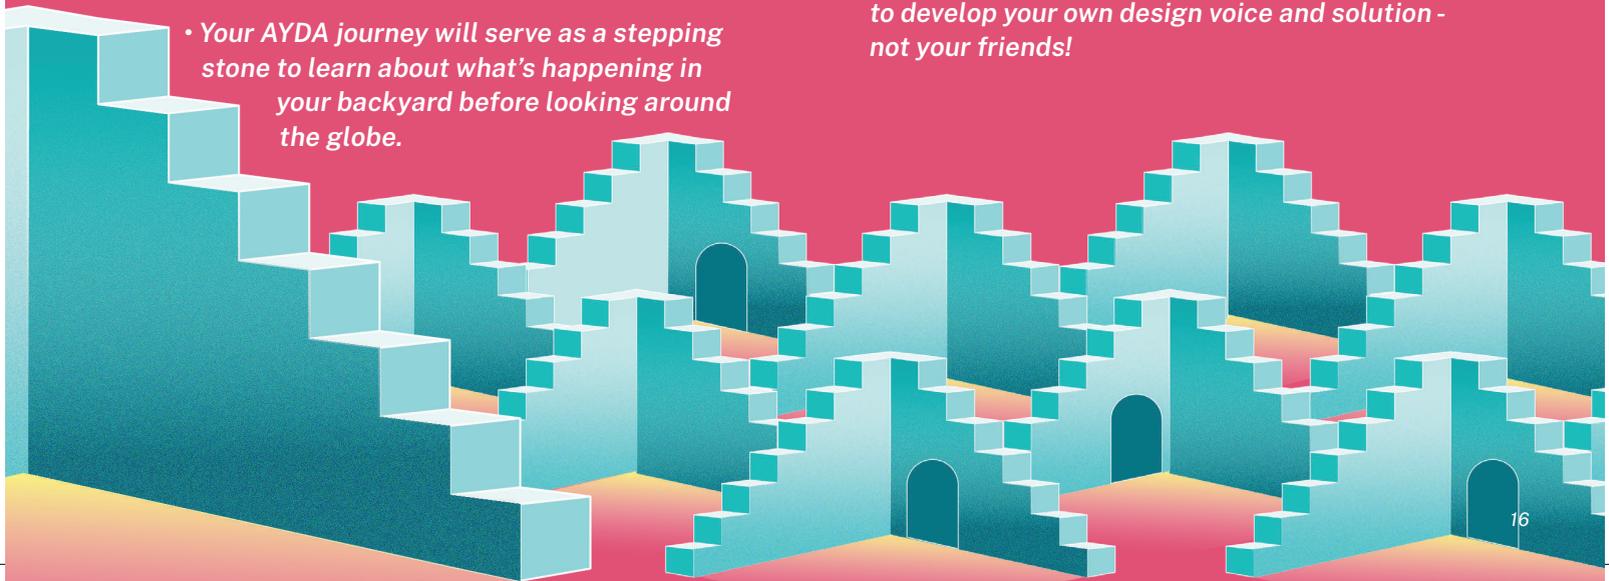

FINDING A CAUSE WORTH FIGHTING FOR

- We can help change the world to be a better place one baby step at a time. There are many worldly issues with complex background and factors that we may not be aware of - and able to address immediately.
- What we can do is to build a better understanding of these topics of interest and pledge our ongoing support to these issues.
- In short, pick something you are passionate about and work towards building a design that can contribute towards it.
- Your AYDA journey will serve as a stepping stone to learn about what's happening in your backyard before looking around the globe.

Step #3

EMBRACING THE POWER OF MEDIA FOR AMPLIFICATION

- Being a social media native, it is a natural part of us to want to leverage on the insights and feedback of the circle of friends and extended circle of followers that we have.
- We encourage you to use it as a feedback tool to gain ideas and feedback from the world of social and help improve your design.
- Warning: Do listen to what people have to say with a grain of salt, at the end of the day, you are to develop your own design voice and solution - not your friends!

Step 1

Finding our Core

“We don’t have to save the world, just to play our part in making the world a better place.”

There is nothing too small or too big in solving social challenges through your design, listen to your heart and find what you truly believe in.

Step 2

Creating an Intention System

“Put forth your intention and turn them into ideas”

By developing and anchoring a clear intention of what you would like to achieve (e.g. solve housing issues for Gen-Z, help save the forest in your hometown or create a socially cohesive co-working space) -you can make conscious and unbiased decisions toward the shared vision and end-goal.

Step 3

Identify Commonalities

We may come from different origins and embrace different languages and cultures but we are humans after all.

We encourage you to see less of “me” and more of “we” when you are designing spaces. Our needs as humans are similar despite our differences.

Reference: The United Nations Sustainable Development Goals

If you are exploring causes that are close to your heart and potential design themes you would like to champion, feel free to check out the framework created by the United Nations.

Your Design Brief at One Glance

You are required to demonstrate and showcase elements of good designs and how it can benefit its users. “CONVERGE: CHAMPIONING PURPOSEFUL DESIGNS” is about finding your core and what you truly believe in before manifesting it into your design.

How can we care less and be less pressured about the issues we are exposed to via social media and care more about our passion and core in design? Finding the right voice and a cause worth fighting for will push your level of innovation to greater heights. By resonating with your core, design a space that can help solve a global problem --- starting from your very own backyard.

Architectural Category

We want you to look into scalable solutions in architecture that can help create positive impact for your local communities, and with the idea of it being replicated in other parts of the world with similar challenges.

Will your design focus on the ever growing population in the cities, the ever declining nature and natural resources in your part of the world or help people connect with each other?

Some critical architectural elements for you to consider:

- 01 Level of innovation and integration of technology
- 02 Social and economical impact
- 03 Environmental footprint and impact
- 04 Energy utilisation
- 05 Human interactivity and social needs
- 06 Colour and light theories

Interior Design Category

We want you to look into scalable solutions in Interior Design that can create a positive impact towards users of the space, and with the idea of being replicated in other parts of the world with the similar impact.

Will your design transform residential, commercial or public spaces in order to bring people closer together? Or, will your design provoke emotions and sentiments towards protecting our culture, heritage and Mother Nature?

Some critical interior design elements for you to consider:

- 01 Level of innovation
- 02 Aesthetic qualities in relations to the social needs and, human interactivity and well-being of users
- 03 Functionality in regards to lasting and ergonomic designs
- 04 Interior space energy utilisation
- 05 Colour and light theories

Important Note: The aforementioned elements of convergence are examples for your reference, you do not necessarily need to follow the directions. It is a guidance to help give you a better understanding of convergence and its influence on societal changes.

Pro-Tips: HOW TO WRITE A RELEVANT AND POWERFUL DESIGN STATEMENT?

Your write-up will be the first component to be reviewed by our judges. It should not be more than 800 words. It should also provide the structure for your oral presentation if you are shortlisted to present your design concept to the judges. It should answer the following questions:

How will your future-proof design concept solve and/or benefit the communities and societies around it?

- How do you envision the ecological, sociological, and technological aspects that may contribute to the well-being of humanity?
- What is your design's impact on the environment based on its concept, materials, maintenance, energy usage and water and waste management?
- In your opinion, what is the one key component that must exist in future-proof designs?

Your research process:

- What was your research methodology?
- Who was your main source of information and/or inspiration during your research?
- What questions and scope of work did you consider during your research process?
- Was the research methodology effective?
- What did you learn from your research findings?

Pro-Tips:

WHAT ELSE TO CONSIDER WHEN WRITING YOUR DESIGN STATEMENT?

Conceptualisation

Employing critical and mature solutions through effective design concepts and communications.

Design innovation

Thinking out-of-the-box to implement inventive and innovative interventions.

Critical analysis

Finding strategic ways to resolve issues critically with traditions, cultures and people in mind.

Design sensitivity

Designing with an empathetic mindset through practical, functional and well-designed considerations.

Sustainability

Adopting a sustainable and greener sensibility to allow design and architecture to coexist harmoniously with nature and its surroundings.

Place-making

Understanding the importance of interactions between the people as well as significant cultural contexts.

Forward-thinking

Preparing for Your Submission

Presentation Guidelines

Important Note: The following presentation guidelines is a framework for you to present with maximised impact. Do speak to your mentors and lecturers for more ideas on how to best position your approaches and design.

Design Concept and Inspiration (~4 Minutes)

- You can start your presentation with an emphasis of your design concept, personal motivation and inspiration
- This is a good time to bring in significant learnings or life event that has led you to creating this design

Design Perspectives (~8 Minutes)

- Many finalists in the past spent too much time on their inspiration and have not allocated sufficient time to elaborate their design perspectives and its functions
- To illustrate/showcase exactly how/what are the design languages/techniques that you have learned, and you have employed/utilise to achieve the design statements/intentions that you have chosen
- Do take the time in breaking down your complex design perspectives and walk our judges through. We highly encourage you to prepare zoomed-in perspectives/ images in your presentation to help judges have a better view of your work

Closing/Recap (~3 Minutes)

- Recap and reiterate your design solution and concept with potential elements that will improve the lives of communities (if any)

Section L3) FAQs and policies information for international students

International students

Participants of Design Discovery come from across the globe, with international participants making up 43% of the program's population. With such a culturally diverse student body, Design Discovery's learning environment provides a unique perspective of the impact of design across nations.

International applicants are encouraged to apply early and to begin the I-20 application process by early March. Additional information regarding the I-20 process will be provided upon admission. A brief overview of visa requirements is outlined below.

Important Visa Information

Design Discovery is considered a full-time academic program. International participants entering the U.S. must enter on an F-1 student visa. Neither Electronic System for Travel Authorization (ESTA) nor the B-2 visa allows full-time study. ESTA and B-2 visas are only for international travellers whose main reason for visiting the United States is tourism. Do not attempt to enter the United States on either ESTA or the B-2 visa. Attempting to enter the United States on ESTA or the B-2 visa to attend a full-time non-degree program is a violation of the US visa policy and you risk being denied entry to the United States.

Canadian applicants

If you will be enrolled in courses as specified above, you are required to request an I-20 certificate. However, you do not need to obtain an F-1 visa stamp in your passport prior to traveling to the US. Instead, you will present your I-20 certificate at the port of entry.

International applicants currently studying in the United States

If you are currently studying in the U.S. and will not be graduating this spring, you do not need to apply for a new visa sponsored by Harvard; you may attend Design Discovery on your current F-1 visa. You must, however, ask your school's international office for approval to attend our program. If you are studying in the U.S. and graduating this spring, you may want to consider transferring your F-1 visa to Harvard. You may download the transfer form at: [io.harvard.edu/transfer-form-students\[P2\]](http://io.harvard.edu/transfer-form-students[P2])

English Proficiency Test

International applicants, except those from countries where English is the native language or who are currently enrolled in a university within the United States, must submit ONE of the following:

- A valid score from the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) internet-based test

The minimum required TOEFL iBT total score is 92, with the following minimum section requirements: reading, 23; speaking, 23; listening, 23; writing, 23. Please have test results submitted to the Harvard University's Graduate School of Design, institution code 3455. For further information about the TOEFL exam, please visit <http://www.ets.org/toefl>.

- Duolingo test

The minimum required score is 115.

(Please check with Harvard GSD on the latest minimum score requirement prior to application)

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

I am an international student. Do I need to apply for a visa if I am currently attending a U.S. college or university?

No. However, you must ask your school's international office for approval to attend our program in lieu of applying for a new visa.

For international students, is there a minimum TOEFL score that must be achieved?

Yes. The minimum required TOEFL iBT total score is 92, with the following minimum section requirements: reading, 23; speaking, 23; listening, 23; writing, 23. The preferred total TOEFL iBT score is 104 or above, with individual section scores of 26 or above.

(Please check with Harvard GSD on the latest minimum score requirement prior to application)

Can other English proficiency tests be substituted to replace TOEFL?

Yes, applicants may take the Duolingo test in lieu of the TOEFL. The minimum required score for Duolingo is 115.

GENERAL FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS – DESIGN DISCOVERY

How old do I have to be to apply to Design Discovery?

Applicants must be at least 18 years of age and must have a high school diploma or the equivalent. A high level of academic skill is necessary to take full advantage of our rigorous program.

How do I submit my transcript(s)? Do I need to send an official copy with my application?

Transcripts should be submitted electronically through the online application. Applicants should scan a copy of their transcript(s) and upload these documents as part of the online application. During the application process, it is not necessary to send an official transcript.

Does my transcript need to be official, or can I scan an unofficial version?

Scanned transcripts can be unofficial or official. If we need further information, we may ask for an official transcript to be sent to our office for review.

I am having technical difficulties with the online application (such as uploading a transcript). What do I do?

You may contact the Design Discovery office at discovery@gsd.harvard.edu.

I don't have a background in design — can I apply?

Yes. Design Discovery is a program designed to introduce Architecture, Landscape Architecture, and Urban Planning & Design to those who have interest in the areas but have little to no experience within the disciplines.

Can I apply for more than one concentration at the same time?

Participants of the program are exposed to all three concentrations through lectures, but your studio work will focus on only one chosen concentration. Participants have one week to switch concentrations once the program has begun.

Does the program cover design thinking?

Yes, it does. The program is as much about the 'mind-set' as it is about the 'toolset' of designers. Many of our students have gone on to other disciplines, taking with them what is now called 'design thinking'; the processes, mental habits, and methods of research and collaboration that are second-nature to designers which can be beneficially applied to all fields and areas of study.

When are admission decisions made?

The admission decision process begins in February and is made on a rolling basis. Applicants will be notified of final decisions by email. Only completed applications will be reviewed.

Where do most students live? Are there dorms?

Most participants live on campus in dormitories provided by the Harvard Law School. Others may live within walking distance of the school.

What kind of computer resources are there?

Participants are given access to the computer labs in Gund Hall. They also have access to all programs on the GSD network. We recommend that you bring your own laptop. Wireless internet is available in Gund Hall as well as in the dormitories.

After completing the program, how do I request a Design Discovery transcript?

You may request for a Design Discovery transcript by filling out the form on the Evaluation and Certificate page.

Can I be removed from your program's mailing list?

Yes, you may. To remove yourself from the program's mailing list, email a request to unsubscribe from our mailing list with your name and address to discovery@gsd.harvard.edu.

Harvard Graduate School of Design

POLICIES AND STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

POLICY ON PERSONAL CONDUCT

A free environment for academic pursuits requires reasonable conduct, both in academic and non-academic affairs, by all members of the school. The faculty may impose discipline or penalties on individuals for acts that disrupt or endanger the university community's pursuit of teaching, learning, and research in an atmosphere of free inquiry and personal and psychological security. The faculty may consider sanctions whether or not civil or criminal penalties are imposed. Violation of specific domains considered here include, but are not limited to, plagiarism, sexual and racial harassment, the use of physical violence, and lying to an officer. Procedures for disciplinary hearings and sanctions are described in the section below titled Review Process.

The Student's Responsibility

Students are bound by those policies of Harvard University and the Graduate School of Design that govern student conduct. Access to and familiarity with the policies that govern student conduct are a right and responsibility of every student and students are expected to be familiar with those policies. Such a learning environment depends upon considerate behavior toward all members, respect for one another's privacy, and accurate representation of one's own work. Students, faculty, and staff are subject to the policies of Harvard University that govern the conduct of members of the School as articulated in the University-wide Statement of Rights and Responsibilities. View here: provost.harvard.edu/university-wide-statement-rights-and-responsibilities

Respect for Others and Their Property

Behavior should be respectful of the rights, privileges, and sensibilities of other people, whether or not they are members of the academic community, and their property, whether or not it is university property. Intimidating, threatening, or hostile behavior toward others is a violation of this policy and may subject the offender to school and university sanctions. Likewise, willful destruction, theft and vandalism of the work or possessions of another student or group of students or of any educational resource (including computers and library materials) and unauthorized use of property are unacceptable and may also subject the offender to sanctions.

Personal Safety

Willful behavior that endangers the personal safety of others, whether or not they are members of the GSD, is a violation of school policies and may subject the offender to sanctions.

Riots, violent intimidation or threats, use of weapons, physical assault, and any other acts that endanger the physical well-being of individuals are violations of this policy. As discussed below, the GSD has adopted the University-wide Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment Policy (“University Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment Policy”).

Protests and Demonstrations

Freedom of speech and assembly, including spontaneous and organized protests and demonstrations, is an essential part of both academic life and the culture of the United States. However, protesters and demonstrators are obliged to respect the rights of other individuals and especially to ensure personal safety for all participants. Although peaceful demonstrations are a matter of civil rights, it is a violation of this policy for any member of the GSD community to prevent or disrupt university functions, such as lectures, seminars, reviews, meetings, and other public events; and administrative, study, design, research, interview, and other non-public activities.

Contact Persons

Anyone who has reason to believe that a student has engaged in conduct that violated the school’s policies on academic integrity, respect for others and their property, personal safety, or protests and demonstrations should report the matter to an appropriate faculty member or program director, or to any officer of the administration. Anyone wishing to report a violation of the University Policy should begin by contacting the Harvard University Office for Sexual and Gender-Based Dispute Resolution (“ODR”) or the relevant School or unit Title IX Coordinator. In the event that the first GSD officer to whom someone reports an alleged violation of the University Policy is not the appropriate Title IX Coordinator, it is that GSD officer’s responsibility to forward the matter either to ODR or to the appropriate Title IX Coordinator.

Discrimination Non-discrimination Policy

In accordance with Harvard University policy, the Graduate

School of Design does not discriminate against any person on the basis of race, color, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, religion, creed, age, national origin, ancestry, veteran status, disability, genetic information, military service, or any other legally protected basis, in admission to, access to, or employment in its programs and activities. Every effort will be made to ensure fairness and consistency in the school’s relations with its students, faculty and staff. The GSD’s procedures for responding to incidents of discrimination are described in the section, ‘Review Process’ below.

Contact Persons

A student of the GSD community who believes that any form of prohibited discrimination has occurred should bring this matter forward for review. (See section ‘Review Process’ below, for a description of the review process.) The following persons have been designated to handle inquiries regarding the non-discrimination programs:

POLICY ON ACADEMIC CONDUCT

See separate webpage for academic misconduct policies and procedures.

Review Process for Violations of the Policies on Student Conduct and Non-Discrimination
Informal Complaint Process

Cases of violations of the GSD student conduct policy or discrimination may be resolved informally. The dean of students will discuss this option with the subject of the possible violation, the "complainant." If the complainant wishes to explore that avenue, this might result in an informal conference with the complainant, the student who allegedly violated GSD policy, "the respondent," and the dean of students. The informal review will normally be completed within 60 days of the initial report of a possible violation to the dean of students.

Formal Complaint Process

If a satisfactory resolution cannot be found through an informal approach, and the complainant wishes to pursue the matter (or elects not to seek an informal resolution), the complainant will confer with the dean of students and submit a written complaint to the dean of students. The written complaint should specify the following:

- a. The full name and contact information of the complainant;
- b. The name and contact information (if known) of the respondent or respondents (person or persons against whom the charge is made);
- c. A statement of the facts that support the allegation of a violation of the University Policy;
- d. The date or dates and location of the alleged acts or practices.

Attached to the complaint should be a list of any sources of information (for example, witnesses, correspondence, and the like) that the complainant believes might be relevant to the investigation, but a complaint should not be delayed if such sources of information are unknown or unavailable.

The University does not limit the timeframe for filing a complaint, although a complainant is encouraged to file as soon as reasonably possible both for effective gathering of information, and also to allow time for the Review Board to review the case, if necessary, in the likelihood that the respondent is graduating or is no longer employed by the University.

Although the initiation of a complaint in cases involving student conduct will be addressed by the Review Board panel, however, it may also be suggested or required, depending on the circumstances, that the Harvard University Police Department be notified. In cases that involve a civil suit, the dean of students may decide to proceed with a review independently of the suit or may decline to review a case that is considered to be in the purview of the civil courts only.

Review Board Procedures

The Review Board

The Review Board will be comprised of six voting members of the Faculty of Design serving staggered three-year terms, of whom one will be designated chair by the dean. Three members of the Review Board will be elected, one from each academic department. The dean will appoint three at-large members and will also appoint an officer of the administration to serve as ex-officio (non-voting) member of the board. All formal complaints and charges will be reviewed by a panel consisting of at least three faculty members normally selected from among the members of the Review Board in advance plus the nonvoting member of the board. Either the respondent or complainant may challenge participation by any member of the Review Board reviewing the case in question, by written petition to the dean of students. For good cause, as determined by the Dean of the Faculty of Design, the challenged board member shall be replaced by another board member.

Investigation of Facts

The panel appointed by the Review Board may investigate the facts or may request that an appropriate member of the university community investigate and report in writing. The case is ordinarily considered by the panel as quickly as is reasonably possible, given the panel's schedule and the need to investigate matters carefully. Due consideration will be given to the privacy of all involved parties. The respondent and complainant or their designees will be provided with the opportunity to review the investigative report within 15 days from the date that the panel receives the report.

Hearing

The panel may hold a hearing to consider whether any violations of institutional policy have occurred. The hearing normally will be scheduled within 30 days of completion of the investigative report.

The panel must give notice of at least 10 days to all parties prior to the aforementioned hearing. The hearing will not be open to the public. Participation will be determined by the panel. Normally, the complainant and the respondent may each bring an advisor to the hearing. Since the hearing process is not a legal proceeding, legal counsel may not be present. A record of the hearing will be kept by the dean of students for a minimum of three years and will be considered confidential. The panel's report of findings and any recommendations for sanctions will normally be completed within 30 days after the conclusion of the hearing, and the panel will forward its report to the dean. The panel will provide both parties or their designees with an opportunity to view the report. Either party may submit a response to the dean within ten days of the panel's report becoming available.

Panel Decisions

Upon agreement of the complainant and respondent, the panel may waive any step(s) in these procedures. The panel may determine at any point in these procedures that, based on the information available, insufficient evidence exists to warrant further review or possible sanctions. The panel will notify all concerned parties of this finding and consider the matter closed, except as provided in the Appeal section below.

Sanctions

When a violation of the GSD Policy is found to have occurred, the Review Board panel will consider the imposition of appropriate sanctions. The complainant and the respondent will be notified.

In the event that the respondent is a member of the GSD faculty, the panel will forward its findings to the dean for consideration and possible action according to the policies and procedures that govern faculty.

Students are expected to comply with all disciplinary rules from matriculation until the conferring of the degree. A degree will not be granted to a student who is not in good standing or against whom a disciplinary charge is pending.

Sanctions for a student may include, but are not limited to, the following:

Admonition: A formal reprimand that becomes part of the student's official record but does not appear on the transcript (minor sanction).

Probation: Conditional permission to remain at the GSD.

Probation becomes part of the student's official record but does not appear on the transcript (minor sanction).

Involuntary Leave of Absence: Temporary separation from the GSD for a specified period of time, after which the student is ordinarily reinstated, or may be required to request permission from the panel to be reinstated, sometimes under probation. Involuntary leave of absence is part of the student's official record and 'Leave of Absence' is noted on the student's transcript (minor sanction).

Requirement to Withdraw: The requirement to withdraw normally is effective immediately upon the decision of the panel. A student who is required to withdraw, for whatever reason, is not in good standing until readmitted. The student must apply for readmission to the panel and through the regular admissions process. The reason for withdrawal is part of the student's official record but is not specified on the student's transcript, although the withdrawal is noted on the transcript (minor sanction).

Dismissal: An action taken in serious disciplinary cases that ends a student's connection with the University and requires a two-thirds vote by the Student Sanctions Committee (see below). The action taken by the panel is a recommendation to the Student Sanctions Committee that the student be dismissed.

The sanction of dismissal does not necessarily preclude a student's return to the GSD. A dismissed student may petition for readmission and be readmitted only upon a two-thirds vote in favor by members of the Student Sanctions Committee, of which 7 of the 9 committee members must be present, in addition to applying for admission through the regular admissions process. A dismissed student is not in good standing until readmitted. Dismissal becomes part of a student's official record and will appear on the student's official transcript (major sanction).

Expulsion: The action taken by the panel is a recommendation to the Student Sanctions Committee that the student be expelled. Requires a two-thirds vote by the Student Sanctions Committee (see below). The student may not reapply and expulsion is part of the student's official record and is noted on the student's transcript, though the reason for the expulsion is not specified on the transcript (major sanction).

If minor sanctions (e.g., admonition, probation, involuntary leave of absence, requirement to withdraw) are recommended by the panel, the dean will review the panel's recommendations, with supporting materials, and take appropriate action. The decision of the dean will be made within 30 days of receipt of the panel's report, and is final, except as provided in the Appeal section below.

If major sanctions (dismissal or expulsion) are recommended by the panel, the Student Sanctions Committee will meet to review the recommendation and take final action. At least seven (7) of the nine (9) Committee members must be present. In accordance with the Eleventh Statute of the University, no student shall be dismissed or expelled except by two thirds (2/3) vote in favor by members of the Committee present and voting thereon. The final action of the Committee shall be communicated to the parties in writing within 15 days. A summary of the case, with participants' names withheld, and the final action taken by Committee, will be reported to the full voting faculty at its next meeting.

The decision of the Student Sanctions Committee is final, except as provided in the Appeal section below. The decision shall be communicated to the parties in writing within 15 days.

Appeals

All sanctions or other decisions (including denial of a hearing) are subject to appeal. An appeal may be directed to the dean within 30 days of the decision in question. Appeals will generally be granted only on the basis of new evidence or significant procedural error. In cases where the appeal pertains to a lesser sanction, the dean's ruling on the appeal will be made within 30 days and is final. In cases where the appeal pertains to a major sanction, and the result of the appeal is a recommendation by the dean for a change in sanction, a new vote of the Student Sanctions Committee is required. At that time, the Committee's decision is final. All parties in a case will be notified in writing of the final decision of the appeal within 30 days of the decision.

Disclosure

The GSD is allowed to disclose the results of a disciplinary proceeding against an alleged perpetrator of a crime of violence to the alleged victim of that crime without the prior written consent of the alleged perpetrator.

Panel Discretion

The panel may, in its discretion and for good cause, alter any deadlines in these procedures.

Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment

The GSD has adopted the University-wide Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment Policy.

The University Policy is reproduced in its entirety below.

Harvard University is committed to maintaining a safe and healthy educational and work environment in which no member of the University community is, on the basis of sex, sexual orientation, or gender identity, excluded from participation in, denied the benefits of, or subjected to discrimination in any University program or activity. Gender-based and sexual harassment, including sexual violence, are forms of sex discrimination in that they deny or limit an individual's ability to participate in or benefit from University programs or activities.

This Policy is designed to ensure a safe and non-discriminatory educational and work environment and to meet legal requirements, including: Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in the University's programs or activities; relevant sections of the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in employment; and Massachusetts laws that prohibit discrimination on the basis of sex, sexual orientation, and gender identity. It does not preclude application or enforcement of other University or School policies.

It is the policy of the University to provide educational, preventative and training programs regarding sexual or gender-based harassment; to encourage reporting of incidents; to prevent incidents of sexual and gender-based harassment from denying or limiting an individual's ability to participate in or benefit from the University's programs; to make available timely services for those who have been affected by discrimination; and to provide prompt and equitable methods of investigation and resolution to stop discrimination, remedy any harm, and prevent its recurrence. Violations of this Policy may result in the imposition of sanctions up to, and including, termination, dismissal, or expulsion, as determined by the appropriate officials at the School or unit.

Retaliation against an individual for raising an allegation of sexual or gender-based harassment, for cooperating in an investigation of such a complaint, or for opposing discriminatory practices is prohibited. Submitting a complaint that is not in good faith or providing false or misleading information in any investigation of complaints is also prohibited.

Nothing in this Policy shall be construed to abridge academic freedom and inquiry, principles of free speech, or the University's educational mission.

Definitions

Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is defined as the unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature, including unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal, nonverbal, graphic, or physical conduct of a sexual nature, when: (1) submission to or rejection of such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a condition of an individual's employment or academic standing or is used as the basis for employment decisions or for academic evaluation, grades, or advancement (quid pro quo); or (2) such conduct is sufficiently severe, persistent, or pervasive that it interferes with or limits a person's ability to participate in or benefit from the University's education or work programs or activities (hostile environment).

Quid pro quo sexual harassment can occur whether a person resists and suffers the threatened harm, or the person submits and avoids the threatened harm. Both situations could constitute discrimination on the basis of sex.

A hostile environment can be created by persistent or pervasive conduct or by a single severe episode. The more severe the conduct, the less need there is to show a repetitive series of incidents to prove a hostile environment. Sexual violence, including rape, sexual assault, and domestic and dating violence, is a form of sexual harassment. In addition, the following conduct may violate this Policy:

- Observing, photographing, videotaping, or making other visual or auditory records of sexual activity or nudity, where there is a reasonable expectation of privacy, without the knowledge and consent of all parties
- Sharing visual or auditory records of sexual activity or nudity without the knowledge and consent of all recorded parties and recipient(s)
- Sexual advances, whether or not they involve physical touching
- Commenting about or inappropriately touching an individual's body
- Requests for sexual favors in exchange for actual or promised job benefits, such as favorable reviews, salary increases, promotions, increased benefits, or continued employment
- Lewd or sexually suggestive comments, jokes, innuendoes, or gestures
- Stalking

Other verbal, nonverbal, graphic, or physical conduct may create a hostile environment if the conduct is sufficiently persistent, pervasive, or severe so as to deny a person equal access to the University's programs or activities. Whether the conduct creates a hostile environment may depend on a variety of factors, including: the degree to which the conduct affected one or more person's education or employment; the type, frequency, and duration of the conduct; the relationship between the parties; the number of people involved; and the context in which the conduct occurred.

Unwelcome Conduct

Unwelcome conduct is defined as the behavior that was not (1) requested or invited and (2) undesirable or offensive. That a person welcomes some sexual contact does not necessarily mean that person welcomes other sexual contact. Similarly, that a person willingly participates in conduct on one occasion does not necessarily mean that the same conduct is welcome on a subsequent occasion.

Whether conduct is unwelcome is determined based on the totality of the circumstances, including various objective and subjective factors. The following types of information may be helpful in making that determination: statements by any witnesses to the alleged incident; information about the relative credibility of the parties and witnesses; the detail and consistency of each person's account; the absence of corroborating information where it should logically exist; information that the Respondent has been found to have harassed others; information that the Complainant has been found to have made false allegations against others; information about the Complainant's reaction or behavior after the alleged incident; and information about any actions the parties took immediately following the incident, including reporting the matter to others.

In addition, when a person is so impaired or incapacitated as to be incapable of requesting or inviting the conduct, conduct of a sexual nature is deemed unwelcome, provided that the Respondent knew or reasonably should have known of the person's impairment or incapacity. The person may be impaired or incapacitated as a result of drugs or alcohol or for some other reason, such as sleep or unconsciousness. A Respondent's impairment at the time of the incident as a result of drugs or alcohol does not, however, diminish the Respondent's responsibility for sexual or gender-based harassment under this Policy.

Gender-Based Harassment

Gender-based harassment is verbal, nonverbal, graphic, or physical aggression, intimidation, or hostile conduct based on sex, sex-stereotyping, sexual orientation or gender identity, but not involving conduct of a sexual nature, when such conduct is sufficiently severe, persistent, or pervasive that it interferes with or limits a person's ability to participate in or benefit from the University's education or work programs or activities. For example, persistent disparagement of a person based on a perceived lack of stereotypical masculinity or femininity or exclusion from an activity based on sexual orientation or gender identity also may violate this Policy.

Jurisdiction

This Policy applies to sexual or gender-based harassment that is committed by students, faculty, staff, Harvard appointees, or third parties, whenever the misconduct occurs:

1. On Harvard property; or
2. Off Harvard property, if:
 - a) the conduct was in connection with a University or University-recognized program or activity; or
 - b) the conduct may have the effect of creating a hostile environment for a member of the University community.

Monitoring and Confidentiality

A variety of resources are available at the University and in the area to assist those who have experienced gender-based or sexual harassment, including sexual violence.

Individuals considering making a disclosure to University resources should make sure they have informed expectations concerning privacy and confidentiality. The University is committed to providing all possible assistance in understanding these issues and helping individuals to make an informed decision.

It is important to understand that, while the University will treat information it has received with appropriate sensitivity, University personnel may nonetheless need to share certain information with those at the University responsible for stopping or preventing sexual or gender-based harassment. For example, University officers, other than those who are prohibited from reporting because of a legal confidentiality obligation or prohibition against reporting, must promptly notify the School or unit Title IX Coordinator about possible sexual or gender-based harassment, regardless of whether a complaint is filed. Such reporting is necessary for various reasons, including to ensure that persons possibly subjected to such conduct receive appropriate services and information; that the University can track incidents and identify patterns; and that, where appropriate, the University can take steps to protect the Harvard community. This reporting by University officers will not necessarily result in a complaint; rather, the School or unit Title IX Coordinator, in consultation with the Title IX Officer, will assess the information and determine what action, if any, will be taken. Information will be disclosed in this manner only to those at the University who, in the judgment of the Title IX Officer or School or unit Title IX Coordinator, have a need to know.

Should individuals desire to discuss an incident or other information only with persons who are subject to a legal confidentiality obligation or prohibition against reporting, they should ask University officers for information about such resources, which are available both at the University and elsewhere. University officers are available to discuss these other resources and to assist individuals in making an informed decision.

Violations of Other Rules

The University encourages the reporting of all concerns regarding sexual or gender-based harassment. Sometimes individuals are hesitant to report instances of sexual or gender-based harassment because they fear they may be charged with other policy violations, such as underage alcohol consumption. Because the University has a paramount interest in protecting the well-being of its community and remedying sexual or gender-based harassment, other policy violations will be considered, if necessary, separately from allegations under this Policy.

Other Forms of Harassment

The following addresses the GSD's policies governing harassment that is not covered by the University Policy. Harassment can create an environment in which access to education and employment is diminished. The GSD seeks to maintain an atmosphere free of harassment. There are obligations of civility and respect for others that underlie rational discourse. Harassment not only shows grave disrespect for the dignity of others but also impedes the free discussion and exchange of ideas. This policy statement seeks to define the circumstances under which behavior affecting the GSD community may constitute impermissible harassment and grounds for disciplinary action. It also seeks to clarify the point at which protected free expression ends and prohibited harassment begins.

Policy

It is impermissible for any member of the GSD community to engage in harassment of others. This includes, but is not limited to, harassment based on characteristics such as race, color, national origin, religion, age, creed, ancestry, veteran status, or disability. Harassment is particularly objectionable when it involves the abuse of GSD authority. Such behavior, as defined in the following section, may be grounds for disciplinary action such as censure, probation, separation, dismissal, or expulsion.

Definitions

Physical Harassment

Certain physical acts may constitute harassment. These include, but are not limited to, assault, unwelcome touching, physical intimidation, defacing or damaging property, interference with freedom of movement, and other forms of behavior that violate federal or state civil rights law. Such acts are impermissible whether or not they are based on characteristics such as race, color, national or ethnic origin, religion, age, political beliefs, veteran status, or disability status. The fact that physical harassment may be accompanied by verbal or symbolic expression does not make the physical harassment less punishable.

Verbal or Symbolic Harassment

Certain purely verbal or symbolic expressions may also constitute harassment. Epithets, threats and other abusive expressions, or unwelcome comments may constitute harassment and are impermissible if, from the standpoint of a reasonable person, they are sufficiently severe or pervasive to adversely affect an individual's working or learning environment. This category includes but is not limited to, expressions based on such characteristics as race, ethnic group, religious belief, disability status, or age. Depending on the circumstances, verbal expressions may be punishable where, from the standpoint of a reasonable person, they (1) are addressed directly to an individual or several individuals; (2) insult, stigmatize, or intimidate the individual(s); and (3) evince on the part of the speaker(s) grave disrespect and intent to demean the individual(s).

Racial Harassment

The GSD seeks to maintain an instructional environment free from racial harassment. The GSD defines racial and ethnic harassment as actions on the part of an individual or group that demean or abuse another individual or group because of race, national origin, or ancestry. Such actions may include but are not restricted to using racial epithets, making racially derogatory remarks, and using racial or ethnic stereotypes.

Resolution of Harassment Concerns

GSD has incorporated the University's Procedures for Handling Complaints Involving Students Pursuant to the University's Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment Policy. In connection with concerns relating to other forms of harassment, a student of the GSD community who believes that harassment has occurred or would like clarification or information on the GSD complaint and resolution procedures, is encouraged to bring this matter to the attention of the dean of students. (See 'Review Policies' for a description of the review process.)

Consensual Romantic Relationships Unprofessional Conduct in Relationships between Individuals of Different University Status

Amorous relationships that might be appropriate in other circumstances always have inherent dangers when they occur between any teacher or officer of the university and any person for whom he or she has a professional responsibility (i.e., as teacher, advisor, evaluator, supervisor). Implicit in the idea of professionalism is the recognition by those in positions of authority that in their relationships with students or staff there is always an element of power. It is incumbent upon those with authority not to abuse, nor seem to abuse, the power with which they are entrusted.

GSD officers and other members of the teaching staff should be aware that any romantic involvement with their students may make them liable for formal action against them. Even when both parties have consented at the outset to the development of such a relationship, it is the officer or instructor who, by virtue of his or her special responsibility and educational mission, will be held accountable for unprofessional behavior. Teaching fellows, or teaching assistants may be less accustomed than faculty members to thinking of themselves as holding professional responsibilities, but they, too, are subject to this policy. They may need to exercise special care in their relationships with students whom they instruct, evaluate, or otherwise supervise, recognizing that their students might view them as more powerful than they may perceive themselves to be.

Amorous relationships between members of the faculty and/or with students that occur outside of any direct or formal relationship can also lead to difficulties. In personal relationships between individuals with whom there is no current, direct line of professional responsibility and authority, the senior person should be sensitive to the constant possibility that he or she may unexpectedly be placed in a position of responsibility for a student's instruction or a faculty member's evaluation. This could involve being called upon to write a letter of recommendation or to serve on an admissions or selection committee involving the other individual. In addition, one should be aware that others may speculate that a specific power relationship exists even when there is none, giving rise to assumptions of inequitable academic or professional advantage for the student or faculty member involved. Relationships between officers and students or senior and junior faculty are categorically discouraged by the GSD, and may fall under the purview of this policy.

Review Process

Review Process for Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment Cases

The GSD has incorporated the University's procedures for handling complaints involving students pursuant to the [University's] Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment Policy, including for purposes of student discipline. The procedures with respect to alleged harassment by a Harvard student are contained in the University policies available here: diversity.harvard.edu/pages/title-ix-sexual-harassment. None of the provisions outlined here contradict or replace any provisions of the University Procedures. These provisions are intended to supplement the University Procedures and detail the GSD role at moments when the University Procedures refer to actions taken or decisions made by the "School or unit." To the extent any existing GSD policies and procedures interfere with compliance with the University Policy and Procedures, application of such GSD policies and procedures should be suspended. The provisions in the University Procedures are not reproduced below. For a complete understanding of the procedures concerning alleged sexual or gender-based harassment by GSD students, students should review the University Procedures in conjunction with these supplemental provisions.

The Office for Dispute Resolution (ODR) has been charged with implementing the procedures for students pursuant to the University Policy. The ODR operates under the Office of the Provost, working in partnership with the University's Title IX Officer, School or unit Title IX Coordinators, and other School or unit leadership.

Harvard students, faculty, staff, other Harvard appointees, or third parties who believe they are directly affected by the conduct of a Harvard student (collectively, "initiating parties") may: request information or advice, including whether certain conduct may violate the University Policy; seek informal resolution; or file a formal complaint. Initiating parties are encouraged to bring their concerns to the relevant School or unit Title IX Coordinator, the Title IX Officer, or staff in ODR, but may, if they choose, contact another School or University officer, who will refer the matter as appropriate.

As set forth below, interim measures designed to support and protect the initiating party or the University community may be considered or implemented at any time, including during a request for information or advice, informal resolution, or a formal complaint proceeding. Consistent with GSD policy, interim measures might include, among others: restrictions on contact; course-schedule or work-schedule alteration; changes in housing; leaves of absence; or increased monitoring of certain areas of the campus. These interim measures are subject to review and revision throughout the processes described below, and the initiating party can discuss them with the GSD's Title IX coordinator or the ODR at any time.

When the allegations, if true, might constitute criminal conduct, the party against whom they are brought is hereby advised to seek legal counsel before making any written or oral statements. Those facing allegations may wish to obtain legal advice about how this process could affect any criminal case in which they are or may become involved.

Informal Review

An informal complaint may be made either orally or in writing. It operates as a request to the Title IX coordinator, the Title IX officer, or the Director of ODR to initiate efforts to aid the parties in finding a mutually acceptable resolution. The individual should identify the alleged harasser (if known) and describe the allegations with specificity. The Title IX coordinator, the Title IX officer, or the Director of ODR in consultation with the Title IX Officer will assess the severity of the alleged harassment and the potential risk of a hostile environment for others in the community to determine whether informal resolution may be appropriate. The Title IX coordinator or Title IX officer will also consider whether to put in place any interim measures designed to support the complainant (the person making the complaint) and/or the University community.

Upon determining that informal resolution is appropriate, the Director of ODR will assign an investigator who, in collaboration with the Title IX coordinator or the Title IX Officer or designee will consult further with the person initiating the request, inform the person who is the subject of the allegations, and gather relevant information and communicate with the parties and others, as necessary. The Title IX coordinator will explore with the complainant various alternatives for resolving the matter. These may include, among other possibilities, an informal conference with the complainant, the subject of the possible violation, and others, as appropriate. The Title IX coordinator or the Title IX Officer also may put in place any appropriate interim measures to protect the educational and work environment. At any time, students interested in confidential counseling about options and resources can also contact the Office of Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (<http://osapr.harvard.edu>). A matter will be deemed satisfactorily resolved when both parties expressly agree to an outcome that is also acceptable to the School or unit Title coordinator. At any point prior to such an express agreement, the person who brought the complaint may withdraw the request for informal resolution and initiate a formal complaint under these procedures.

Ordinarily, the informal resolution process will be concluded within two to three weeks of the date of the initial report of a possible violation. Please note that the Title IX officer may not approve an informal resolution if it is a sexual assault allegation.

Initiation of Formal Complaint

If a satisfactory resolution cannot be found through an informal approach, and the complainant wishes to pursue the matter (or would prefer to file a formal complaint alleging a violation of the University Policy), the complainant can file a formal complaint with ODR. The complaint must be in writing and signed and dated by the complainant. The complaint should specify the following:

- a. The full name and address of the complainant;
- b. The name and address (if known) of the respondent or respondents (person or persons against whom the charge is made);
- c. A statement of the facts that support the allegation of a violation of the University Policy;
- d. The date or dates and location of the alleged acts or practices.

Attached to the complaint should be a list of any sources of information (for example, witnesses, correspondence, and the like) that the complainant believes might be relevant to the investigation, but a complaint should not be delayed if such sources of information are unknown or unavailable.

The University does not limit the timeframe for filing a complaint, although a complainant is encouraged to file as soon as reasonably possible both for effective gathering of information, and also to allow time for a disciplinary body to review the case in the likelihood that the respondent is graduating or is no longer employed by the University.

Referral of Complaints Against Staff, Faculty, Other Harvard Appointees, or Third Parties

If the subject of the possible violation is a faculty member, staff member, other Harvard appointee, or third party, ODR promptly will provide the appropriate Title IX coordinator with a copy of the complaint. The School or unit Title IX coordinator, in consultation with other Harvard officers, will determine whether some or all of the allegations will be handled at the School or unit level, or whether ODR will conduct all or part of any investigation.

The Formal Complaint Process

In the event a complaint is raised against a GSD student, once the complaint is received by the ODR, the Director of ODR will assign the case to an investigator for an initial review. The GSD may assign another individual, the “designee” to work jointly with the investigator. The investigative team will contact the complainant in an attempt to gather a more complete understanding of the allegations, as well as any related conduct that may implicate the University Policy. The investigative team will gather information and determine whether the information, if true, would constitute a violation of the policy such that an investigation is warranted. This decision will be communicated to the complainant, the Director of ODR, the Title IX officer, and the GSD's Title IX coordinator. Ordinarily, the initial review will be concluded within one week of the date the complaint was received.

Following the decision to begin an investigation, the investigative team will notify the respondent in writing of the allegations and will provide a copy of the University Policy and the University Procedures. The respondent will have one week in which to submit a written statement in response to the allegations.

If the decision is made to begin an investigation in a case where the complainant is unwilling to participate but the School has assessed the severity of the allegations and the potential risk of a hostile environment for others in the community and has determined to proceed, then for the purposes of the University Procedures, the School Title IX coordinator or a designee will be considered the complainant.

Both the complainant and the respondent may bring a personal advisor to any interviews with the Investigative Team. A personal advisor should be an officer of the University who is affiliated with the School or unit in which the advisee is enrolled or employed, but may not be related to anyone involved in the complaint or have any other involvement in the process. In the case of students enrolled in interdisciplinary programs, their official academic advisor also may serve as their personal advisor. Personal advisors may view a redacted version of the complaint or other documents provided to the parties, offer feedback on their advisee's written statements, and provide general advice. During interviews, personal advisors may not speak for their advisees, although they may ask to suspend the interviews briefly if they feel their advisees would benefit from a short break.

At the conclusion of the investigation, the investigative team will evaluate the evidence and make findings of fact, applying a preponderance of the evidence standard, and will determine whether there has been a violation of the policy. The investigative team will draft an investigative report. Both parties have the opportunity to review the report before it is finalized and will have one week in which to give written feedback. The report will then be finalized and sent to the parties and the School of the respondent. If a violation is found, disciplinary action is determined by the School's administrative board. If the respondent is a GSD student, the case then goes before the GSD's Review Board, as discussed.

The Review Board

The Review Board will be comprised of six voting members of the Faculty of Design serving staggered three-year terms, of whom one will be designated chair by the dean. Three members of the Review Board will be elected, one from each academic department. The dean will appoint three at-large members and will also appoint an officer of the administration to serve as an ex-officio (nonvoting) member of the board. All formal complaints and charges will be reviewed by a panel consisting of at least three faculty members normally selected from among the members of the Review Board in advance plus the nonvoting member of the board. Either the respondent or complainant may challenge participation by any member of the Review Board reviewing the case in question, by written petition to the Dean of Students. For good cause, as determined by the Dean of the Faculty of Design, the challenged board member shall be replaced by another board member.

Review Board Procedures in Sexual/Gender-Based Harassment Cases Sanctions

When a violation of the University Policy is found to have occurred, the GSD's Review Board panel will consider the imposition of appropriate sanctions. The complainant and the respondent will be notified. Within three days of notification, the complainant and respondent may each submit a written statement to the Review Board. The statements will be provided to the other party as well as other officers of Harvard as the Review Board panel deems appropriate. The statements may not challenge the validity of the findings and conclusions contained in the final report, and also may not introduce facts that could have been presented to the Investigative team or that conflict with any of the findings in the final report.

The panel will accept as final and non-reviewable the report's findings of fact and its conclusions as to whether a violation of the University Policy has occurred. The Review Board's disciplinary proceedings against the respondent based on conduct addressed by the report will proceed with the understanding that the final report carries the same validity as a determination reached by the Review Board itself.

The Review Board panel will determine any recommendations of sanctions and will forward any such recommendations to the dean. The panel's report will be supported, where appropriate, by a statement of the reasons for the specific sanction and the principles or policies on which the panel relied in recommending the sanction. The panel will provide both parties or their designees with an opportunity to view its written report in the Office of Student Services. Either party may submit a response to the dean within three days of the panel's report becoming available. However, the only opportunity to appeal the findings related to the University Policy is provided by the ODR. Appeals within the GSD, including appeals to the dean, pertain only to the decision of the Review Board in determining discipline.

Degree will not be granted to a student who is not in good standing or against whom a disciplinary charge is pending.

Sanctions for a student may include, but are not limited to, admonition, probation, separation, requirements to withdraw, dismissal, or expulsion. If minor sanctions (e.g., admonition, probation, or separation) or withdrawal are recommended by the panel, the dean will review the panel's recommendations, with supporting materials, and take appropriate action. If major sanctions (dismissal, or expulsion) are recommended by the panel, the Student Sanctions Committee will meet to review the recommendation and take final action. At least seven (7) of the nine (9) Committee members must be present. In accordance with the Eleventh Statute of the University, no student shall be dismissed or expelled except by two thirds (2/3) vote in favor by members of the Committee present and voting thereon. The final action of the Committee shall be communicated to the parties in writing within 15 days. A summary of the case, and the final action taken by Committee will be reported to the full voting faculty at its next meeting.

The sanction of 'dismissal' does not necessarily preclude a student's return to the GSD. A dismissed student may petition for readmission and be readmitted only upon two thirds (2/3) vote in favor by members of the Committee. At least of seven (7) of the nine (9) Committee members must be present.

Appeals

Either party may appeal the faculty's decision in writing within three days after the faculty's decision is communicated. Again, however, the appeal may pertain only to the disciplinary recommendation.

In cases where the appeal pertains to a major sanction, and the result of the appeal is a recommendation by the dean for a change in sanction, a new vote of the Student Sanctions Committee is required. At that time, the Committee's decision is final.

Disclosure

Disclosure of the final sanctions decision shall be made as appropriate to the respondent and the complainant.

Panel Discretion

The panel may, in its discretion and for good cause, alter any deadlines in these procedures.

POLICY ON THE GENERAL ACADEMIC ENVIRONMENT

The general mission of the GSD is to promote the development of design excellence through teaching, learning, and research. Successful pursuit of this mission is predicated on the considerate behavior and integrity of all members in the academic community. Student membership in the GSD community is a privilege conditional upon ethical conduct in academic matters. In addition, all students share in the GSD's responsibility to maintain an environment conducive to intellectual freedom and the pursuit of knowledge.

Academic Integrity

The GSD seeks to maintain a learning and working environment characterized by academic integrity and fair access to educational resources. The GSD expects all students to honor these principles. Actions that violate these principles include, but are not limited to, the following, and may be the basis for disciplinary action:

- Cheating on examinations, either by copying the work of other students or through the use of unauthorized aids;
- Fraudulent presentation of the work of others (either written or visual) as one's own work (plagiarism), notwithstanding the academically acceptable tradition of incorporating assistance, which is freely offered by GSD classmates, in the final thesis presentation (although the assistance must be acknowledged);
- Simultaneous or repeated submission without permission of substantially the same work (either written or visual) to more than one course;
- Alteration or misrepresentation of academic records;
- Unauthorized collaboration or paid assistance;
- Deliberate interference with the integrity of the work of others;

- Fabrication or falsification of data.

Cases of academic misconduct adhere to the Guidelines described below.

Guidelines for Communicating Expectations

Students are expected to be familiar with and abide by the school's standards for academic integrity and conduct. It also is suggested that instructors communicate expectations for academic conduct, and, if relevant, the following should be discussed:

- Basic expectations for papers and exams. Specify what resources are permitted (including internet resources).
- If students are collaborating on projects, some general assumptions about group work.
- Submission of coursework for one or more courses simultaneously.
- Use of outside copy editing services (as opposed to content editing).
- There are helpful resources available to students at the GSD. The library's Write and Cite website (<http://guides.library.harvard.edu/gsd/write>) is excellent. This guide offers information on writing resources, citation style guides, and academic writing expectations and best practices. Students who need additional information about these issues may also meet with writing tutors through Academic Writing Services, a free service through Frances Loeb Library (<https://www.gsd.harvard.edu/resources/advising-academic-support/>).

Dealing with Violations

Course and studio instructors must report all suspected cases of plagiarism, cheating, or other sorts of academic dishonesty to the Dean of Students. This notification should include a written statement explaining the basis of suspicion. If plagiarism is suspected, the statement should include a copy of the source of the plagiarism and the plagiarized material. The contents of the statement will remain confidential to protect the student's privacy since the facts will not yet have been determined. The instructor may wish to meet with the student at this time to informally discuss the suspicions. The Dean of Students will meet with the instructor to discuss the statement, and then the Dean of Students and the instructor will meet with the student to present the statement and to seek the student's account of the events. If it is determined that the student has plagiarized or cheated, one of the following may be imposed:

1. Having to redo the assignment
2. Failing the assignment
3. Failing the course
4. Referral to Academic Misconduct Panel

Additional and/or alternative remedial steps may be imposed.

Often the first three measures are made in cases where it is apparent that the student did not fully understand his or her obligations or if the offense is considered not severe enough to warrant a hearing with the Academic Misconduct Panel. If any of steps one through three are decided upon, a written record describing the offense and subsequent course of action is signed by the Dean of Students, the faculty member, and the student, and is filed in the Dean of Students' office. As a follow up to the decision, the student will meet with the Dean of Students to review the GSD's policies. The student is then informed that, if another case of misconduct occurs, the subsequent case will move directly to the Academic Misconduct Panel. At any point in pursuing the foregoing steps, the Dean of Students may consult with the Chair of the Academic Misconduct Panel.

Referral to GSD Academic Misconduct Panel

A case will go to the Academic Misconduct Panel if:

1. The finding of academic misconduct is not the first offense.
2. The severity of the misconduct warrants direct review by the Academic Misconduct Panel.
3. A resolution cannot be reached among the student, instructor, and Dean of Students.
4. The student wishes to appeal the decision.

A letter will be sent to the student from the Dean of Students notifying the student that it has been determined that the case will go to the GSD Academic Misconduct Panel.

Students are expected to comply with all disciplinary rules from matriculation until the conferring of the degree. A degree will not be granted to a student who is not in good standing or against whom a disciplinary charge is pending.

GSD Academic Misconduct Panel

The Academic Misconduct Panel will be convened only in cases of academic misconduct. Once a case comes forward to the GSD Review Board, three members will be selected from the faculty appointees to the Review Board. The Review Board Chair serves as Chair of the Academic Misconduct Panel. An alternate will be picked from the Review Board when a member of the Academic Misconduct Panel is a complainant in the case. The term of appointments to the Panel is the length of the Review Board appointments. The responsibilities of the Panel are to investigate claims of academic misconduct in accordance with the policies and procedures outlined below.

Academic Misconduct Panel Review

The registrar or other designated official of the University will staff the Panel and will initiate disciplinary proceedings by sending a letter to the student, with relevant materials, including:

1. A copy of the instructor's written statement of alleged misconduct.
2. The composition of the Academic Misconduct Panel, with notification that within three days of being notified of the composition of the Panel, the student may challenge participation by any member of the Panel reviewing the case in question by written petition to the registrar or other official staffing the panel. For good cause, as determined by the Dean of the Faculty of Design, the challenged Panel member shall be replaced by an alternate member.
3. A copy of the School's Policy on Academic Conduct and Dealing with Violations.
4. A copy of documents related to student's prior cases of academic misconduct, if applicable, with the statement, 'The review will take into account prior instances of academic misconduct.'

5. Notification of the student's right to respond within seven days from receipt of the charge by submitting a response to the registrar or other designated official who is staffing the Panel.

6. Notification that the registrar or other designated official is available to discuss the process with the student with the caveat that the registrar or other official will be providing staff support to the Panel, but is not a voting member.

The registrar or other designated official of the University also will notify the instructor of the composition of the Academic Misconduct Panel. Within three days of notification of the composition of the Panel, the instructor also may challenge participation by any member of the Panel reviewing the case in question, by written petition to the registrar. For good cause, as determined by the Dean of the Faculty of Design, the challenged Panel member shall be replaced by an alternate member.

Copies of all the materials above (including the letter to the student) will be sent to the members of the Academic Misconduct Panel. As noted in #5 above, the student has the right to submit a written statement to the Panel and to offer any evidence bearing on the matter. The student is encouraged to meet with their academic advisor, another faculty member, or administrator to review this statement or to discuss the situation.

During the academic year the Panel will meet as quickly as is reasonably possible, given the Panel's schedule and the need to investigate matters carefully. Outside the academic year, an extension of time for the meeting may be necessary. The student has a right to meet with the Academic Misconduct Panel as part of the hearing process. A student may be accompanied by a designated advisor (chosen by the student) from within the GSD community. Since the hearing process is not a legal proceeding, legal counsel may not be present. The respondent must notify the registrar or other designated official of the name of the designated advisor at least 24 hours prior to the meeting with the Panel. The Panel will make a finding as to whether or not academic misconduct has occurred and, if it has, determine which sanctions if any are appropriate. Sanctions that may be imposed in cases of misconduct are described below:

Admonition: A formal reprimand that becomes part of the student's official record but does not appear on the transcript (minor sanction).

Probation: Conditional permission to remain at the GSD. Probation becomes part of the student's official record but does not appear on the transcript (minor sanction).

Involuntary Leave of Absence: Temporary separation from the GSD for a specified period of time, after which the student is ordinarily reinstated, or may be required to request permission from the Academic Misconduct Panel to be reinstated, sometimes under probation. Involuntary leave of absence is part of the student's official record and Leave of Absence is noted on the student's transcript (minor sanction).

Requirement to Withdraw: The requirement to withdraw normally is effective immediately upon the decision of the Academic Misconduct Panel. A student who is required to withdraw, for whatever reason, is not in good standing until readmitted. The student must apply for readmission to the Academic Misconduct Panel and through the regular admissions process. The reason for withdrawal is part of the student's official record but is not specified on the student's transcript, although withdrawal is noted on the transcript (minor sanction).

Dismissal: An action taken in serious disciplinary cases that ends a student's connection with the University and requires a two-thirds vote by the Student Sanctions Committee (see below). The action taken by the Panel is a recommendation to the Student Sanctions Committee that the student be dismissed.

The sanction of dismissal does not necessarily preclude a student's return to the GSD. A dismissed student may petition for readmission and be readmitted only upon a two-thirds vote in favor by members of the Student Sanctions Committee of which 7 of the 9 committee members must be present, in addition to applying for admission through the regular admissions process. A dismissed student is not in good standing until readmitted. Dismissal becomes part of a student's official record and will appear on the student's official transcript (major sanction).

Expulsion: Requires a two-thirds vote by the Student Sanctions Committee (see below). The action taken by the Panel is a recommendation to the Student Sanctions Committee that the student be expelled. The student may not reapply and expulsion is part of the student's official record and is noted on the student's transcript, though the reason for expulsion is not specified on the transcript (major sanction).

The registrar or other designated official shall send a copy of the decision of the Academic Misconduct Panel to the student.

Decisions of the Panel are final, except for those recommending dismissal or expulsion, which require a two-thirds vote by the Student Sanctions Committee (of which 7 of the 9 Committee members must be present). When a disciplinary case is referred to the Student Sanctions Committee for a vote of dismissal or expulsion, the Chair of the Panel will present the facts of the case in a written report to the Committee. If the Committee fails to accept by two-thirds vote a recommendation by the Academic Misconduct Panel for dismissal or expulsion, the case shall be returned to the Panel for reconsideration of an alternate sanction.

The final action of the Student Sanctions Committee shall be communicated to the parties in writing within 15 days of the decision. A summary of the case, with the participants' names withheld, and the final action taken by the Committee, will be reported to the full voting faculty at its next meeting.

Appeals

All sanctions or other decisions made by the Academic Misconduct Panel or Student Sanctions Committee are subject to appeal. An appeal may be directed to the dean within 30 days of the decision in question. Appeals will generally be granted only on the basis of new evidence or significant procedural error.

The dean's ruling on the appeal will be made within 30 days and is final. In cases where the appeal pertains to dismissal or expulsion, and the result of the appeal is a recommendation by the dean for a change in sanction, a new vote of the Student Sanctions Committee is required. The student will be notified in writing of the final decision.
